University Dining Services Wins Silver In National Competition

University Dining Services has been recognized with the Silver Award from the National Association of College and University Food Service Creators in the Catering-Special Event category of the 2008 Loyal E. Horton Dining Awards contest. UDS was recognized for its submission, “A Farm to College Wedding”. The entry was presented in book format and featured a custom built wooden binder designed to resemble an antique vegetable crate.

The event, a wedding planned and designed to showcase sustainable practices, featured the UM Farm to College program guidelines. These guidelines emphasize purchasing as many foods and beverages that are produced within the state of Montana and surrounding region as are available. University Catering Services is now offering this option to students, staff and alumni.

All of the winning entries will be on display at the NACUFS National Conference to be held in Washington D.C., July 8-11. UDS will accept the award at the Regional Breakfast on Friday, July 11.
